

1H// 244 813 (039)

(039)

Intellectual Property Rights, Innovation and Software Technologies

The Economics of Monopoly Rights and Knowledge Disclosure

Elad Harison

Contents

About the Author	vii
List of Figures	viii
List of Tables	ix
Acknowledgements	xi
1 Introduction	1
1.1 Background	1
1.2 Outline of the Book	3
2 The Economic Rationale of Intellectual Property Rights	5
2.1 Introduction	5
2.2 Do IPRs Reward Innovation?	9
2.3 Appropriating Innovation on Creative Grounds	25
2.4 The Role of Copyrights in the Economy	27
2.5 Further Considerations	29
3 The Role and Performance of IPRs	31
3.1 Introduction	31
3.2 Disclosure vs. Exclusion	33
3.3 The Role of IPRs in Developing New Technologies	47
3.4 Conclusions	60
4 Revealing Obscure Sources	63
4.1 Introduction	63
4.2 The Evolution of Software Intellectual Property Regimes	65
4.3 Software Patents	69
4.4 Copyrights	74
4.5 The Creativity Paradox	78
4.6 From IPR Protection toward Communal Benefits	80
4.7 Conclusions	83

5	Benefiting from Intellectual Property and Free Disclosure	87
5.1	Introduction	87
5.2	Intellectual Property vs. Disclosure: Description of the Model	93
5.3	A Myopic Firm Model	94
5.4	Forward-Looking Firms	98
5.5	The Dynamics of Prices of Proprietary Sources	102
5.6	Discussion	104
5.7	Conclusions	107
5.8	Chapter Appendix: Symbols Used in this Chapter	109
6	Designed for Innovation: The Structure of IPR Regimes	111
6.1	Introduction	111
6.2	Methodology	114
6.3	The Model	118
6.4	The Simulation	125
6.5	Results	125
6.6	Conclusions	132
6.7	Chapter Appendix: Symbols Used in this Chapter	136
7	Owning Technology	137
7.1	Introduction	137
7.2	Aims of the Chapter	141
7.3	Methodology	141
7.4	Findings	145
7.5	Conclusions	161
8	Proposed Framework for Analyzing IPRs	167
8.1	In Need of a New Framework of Software IPRs	167
8.2	The Properties of Markets for Goods and Ideas	168
8.3	Describing Software Applications as Economic Goods	172
8.4	The Use of Metaphors in Juridical Processes	185
8.5	Re-Drawing the Line Between Ideas and Expressions	188
8.6	Conclusions	190
9	Conclusions	193
10	References	199
A	Appendix: Proof of Propositions 5 and 6	215
B	Appendix: Distribution of Patents	217
Index		221